It's been how long?

In 1992 Irene Bauman and her committee of 4 established some basics for a fun program geared towards family participation and enjoyment. In 1993 a modest attempt was made to fund this program. The result - Taylorsville!

After the death of Irene, Nadette Raymond picked up the reins, recruited competent and loyal assistants and persistently made this event grow.

It has now become a tradition riders and volunteers alike enjoy and look forward to attend.

This year was no exception. Saturday had over 70 riders and Sunday over 60 riders were in attendance. a ride and tie event going on at the same time caused some raised eyebrows, but not much more. Everyone had a good time (How can you not, it's Taylorsville!) and participated readily in the surprise for Nadette and John and Meg Castrop.

After 15 years (there's the answer to the headliner) Nadette is retiring from this event. The belt buckle and chair are well deserved, although it is doubtful she'll sit still for very long.

Thank you Nadette, enjoy your "retirement".

Memories

Here's a plea from Patti Souza who is trying to organize CSHA's history. There are several gaps that need to be filled. Is anyone out there who can assist her? articles, flyers, picture, etc., anything is welcome. Don't have anything but memories? Put them into words and get them to Patti.

Do you remember any of the Blue Ribbon Shows or Conventions? Who were the founding clubs? How did YOUR Region come into existence? Did you participate when a program first first started or was in its trial stage? Who did what, when, where?

Patti has taken on a great challenge, but she can't do it alone. Although Patti has been active in the Association for a very long time, she can't be everywhere at the same time. Remember, today's news is tomorrow's history.

Where do we go from here?

by Jim Hendricksen
Central Area Vice President

History is a great thing. It gives us purpose and direction. It chronicles an Organization and gives value to the efforts of those that have gone before us. At this point in time CSHA has over 65 years of history. We have gone through many changes and down many trails to reach this point. Somewhere along the trail we have lost focus and allowed the "Us" and "Them" to enter Our Organization. CSHA needs to return to the "WE".

Since California is over 1200 miles in length, CSHA has a great challenge to keep a State organization running well and meeting the needs of its membership. At the July Quarterly we were made aware of concerns that sections of the state do not have adequate communications; thus a "them" and "us" designation can prevail. We need to return to "for the good of the order" as an attitude and create positive solutions. Don't approach new ideas with "we can't" or "it'll never work". Let's get creative, think outside the box.

We need to ask "what is good for the Organization" as a whole. How can we energize the "horsepower" we have and foster that for the future of our "Horse Communities"? We are all trying to preserve that part of our history, tradition and lifestyles of the horse world. However, for communications we need to utilize every tool we have. Not everyone is on the internet, so some tried and true methods, like our newsletter, need to be utilized to get the word out. We also need to realize that communication needs to be both ways.

I have used the statement "an idea not communicated, is an idea lost forever." Will all of our ideas work? Probably not, some may be specific to an area or region. The idea still needs to be presented, given an opportunity and something even better may come of it.

If we all work together, we can continue to add to the history in a positive manner.

Feedback wanted

At the July quarterly meeting various methods of communication were discussed. Some suggested that a website, if kept current, would suffice, others were of the opinion that something printed would get more attention. There are many pros and cons for both sides. On one hand there is the convenience of the "instant" access through computer, but what if there is no computer available when you need to look something up? What about the newsletter as a means of letting prospective members know who we are and what we do? Does a newsletter help you when you try to get sponsors?

Then there is the cost of producing and mailing any newsletter. What is your opinion, what is your pleasure?

Region Reports

Region 1

PRDC Senior Drill team took second place in Reno in the Senior Division and second place in the Reno Parade too.

They are now getting ready for the WSEDTA competition in Santa Rosa at the end of September.

We are excited to have a few sponsors come on board for our Gymkhana program who are going to help make this a successful year.

Trail Trials at Lake Sonoma was well attended. As always, Lori Cleveland, Sue Edwards and Carolyn Barnes' excellent team work made this a fun event. Clean air, varied terrain and realistic obstacles contributed to the enjoyment.

Region 3

Sacramento Horsemen are making the clubhouse patio ADA accessible. To insure not only the functionality of the new patio but also retain its charm, the new patio will have a brick edging. Of course this inspired a fundraiser and the bricks will be available for purchase. $85.00 will insure that "your" brick -personalized of course- is included.

California Rhythm Riders are working on a new drill and hope to present it to the public at their performance for Ride and Shine later in the year.

Region 18

Richard Winters returns to Cottonwood Creek Equestrian November 8 & 9, 2009 for his Advancing Horsemanship Clinic. This year he will play with cows one day. Maximum of 15

USEF Equine Drugs and Medication Program

Drugs and medications are classified by the USEF's Drug and Medications Rule as being permitted, restricted or forbidden.

Permitted substances include de-wormers, antibiotics (except procaine penicillin), anti-fungals, anti-protozoals, vitamins, electrolytes and anti-ulcer medications.

Caution: Some herbal or natural products are the source for pharmacologically potent forbidden substances such as cocaine, reserpine, marijuana, etc.

Restricted medications include specific non-steroidal anti-inflammatory drugs, muscle relaxants and dexamethasone. Restricted drugs are allowed to be present in the horse at the time of competition, provided they do not exceed the levels specifically set for each drug. Very specific dose and time recommendations are published for all restricted medications to aid competitors, trainers and veterinarians in maintaining compliance with the USEF's drug rules.

Forbidden medications and substances include those that may affect the cardiovascular, respiratory, or central nervous system or have a behavior-altering effect. This includes any stimulant, depressant, tranquilizer, local anesthetic, psychotropic substance or drug that might affect the performance of a horse and/or pony, including corticosteroids, corticosteroids and analgesics. Some forbidden medications may be used for legitimate emergency treatment if proper steps are taken.

These recommendations can be found in the Federation's Drugs and Medications Guidelines pamphlet. (800) 633-2472

Southern Drawl

The Southern Regions had requested that President Adams, First Vice President Jenkins and the three Area Vice Presidents meet with them "in the South" to discuss areas of concern.

The biggest concern is communication. Information from CSHA does not filter through to clubs and members; members seeking information have difficulty obtaining this in a timely manner. Possible solutions discussed are more frequent updates of the website. The monthly CSHA newsletter might also be used as communications tool.

The CSHA website is considered rather bland. It was suggested that State programs might be highlighted on the home page on a rotation basis.

Trail Trials seems to be doing well; TRAP is catching on slowly, but the Gaited Horse program and the Endurance program need to be promoted more.

Gymkhana results in Southern California seem to get out slow. Information to and from the Rating Secretary are viewed to take a long time. Maybe the system could be improved?

Paraders also had some concerns. The established process for the State Parade is sometimes hard to follow, since Cities usually hold the parade. Parade chairs are encouraged to contact cities in their area who have parades and see if these cities can be persuaded to submit a bid to hold the State Parade. Cities who are currently not CSHA approved may want to come aboard; it may also bring in more participants.

The Show of Champions was also brought up. Admittedly it is a hardship on participants at the extreme end of the State, and until a facility is found that is large enough and centrally located, a few options will be investigated. They are, either rotate the Show of Champions just like Convention, or hold mini events to establish area champions, who would then compete for the State title.

All points were brought up at the July quarterly meeting. All members present at the Board of Directors meeting were asked for input on how to overcome the perceived barrier between "the North" and "the South".

Some Travel Tips to minimize stress when transporting horses.

Teach your horse to load calmly well in advance of the event. Even if you never plan to travel with your horse, practice this several times a year, it may come in handy in an emergency.

Keep the trailer in good repair and clean condition. Ensure the tow vehicle is well maintained to avoid breakdowns. It is essential that the exhaust system is in good repair and fumes are expelled to the side of the vehicle. Fumes emitted straight back under the trailer may lead to carbon monoxide poisoning.

Drive "passenger friendly". Practice slow take-offs. Careful braking and smooth cornering are key elements to towing a trailer in a responsible manner. Always think ahead.
